Profile

M.Sc. student in Cognitive Science at the University of Osnabrueck, specializing in Neuroscience and Computational Linguistics.

Employment History

Student Assistant , Institute of Cognitive Science, Osnabrück

APRIL 2021 – PRESENT

I am interested as cognitive researcher specifically in the field of somatosensory stimulation as non-pharmacological aid or support for various conditions or diseases such as:

- Parkinson
- Alzheimer
- Hemorrhagic or ischemic stroke
- Depression

At the NBP (NeuroBioPsychology department), I am currently working in the domain of somatosensory stimulation.

I am conducting several EEG measurements in the frame of a wider project investigating the application of a vibrotactile oddball task by means of the FeelSpace belt for medical purposes.

Moreover, I am collaborating in the Virtual Reality lab to another project using the FeelSpace belt, my role is to take care of the participants of throughout the training and then, collect the data during the testing phase.

The 'Spare' project aims at establishing the impact of a sensory orientation aid in a spatial orientation task performed in VR.

Resident Coordinator , Prime Student Living, Osnabrück

APRIL 2020 – APRIL 2021

The resident coordinator is a figure supporting the administration team in the management of the common areas of a student dorm (study rooms, kitchens, game rooms and washing rooms etc..)

Furthermore, the RC is the reference when the office is close for the following circumstances:

- Check-in, check-out and guided visits
- Individual difficulties of the tenants (loss of keys, disputes, sickness and accidents)
- Emergencies (corona regulations, fire, lack of water, electricity or internet)

Academic Tutor , University of Catania, Catania

OCTOBER 2017 – JUNE 2018

As Academic tutor, I have been presenting a workshop on 'digital Miscommunication'.

The aim was to instruct a group of students on how to detect and recognize fake-news and then ask them to correct some Wikipedia.it voices on salient topics in the domain of Digital Communication.

The bigger frame was the Wiki-Tim project, which took place in 24 previously selected university all around the country.

Moreover the project financed the participation of the most brilliant students in a national technology hackaton, hosted by the Web Marketing Festival.

The academic tutors followed the students from the initial theoretical courses through the rewriting practice on Wikipedia to the final competition in Rimini.

International Office Assistant, University of Catania, Catania

MARCH 2017 – MAY 2017

The role of the International office assistant is to help Erasmus students (both incoming and outgoing) offering on-demand consultation hours.

Students can apply and receive assistance for:

- The correct filling and registration of all the documents required for their permanence abroad
- Doubts and personal difficulties related to the study program chosen

Web Content Manager , NeuroHumanities Studies , Catania

SEPTEMBER 2017 – PRESENT

The NeuroHumanities Network aims at creating a multidisciplinary research community in order to develop a linking platform for neuro-scientific, cognitive disciplines and humanities.

The NHS web content manager updates the official website with:
